

MOSHAVA

In the heart of the picturesque settlement (Moshava) of Binyamina, facing the slopes of Mount Carmel, are historic buildings of about 100 years old.

Once, these structures were surrounded by jasmine fields and an intoxicating bouquet rose from the soil. Every morning at dawn, when the wet dew revitalized the flowers, the settlers went out to pick the fresh jasmines and bring them to their perfume factory, which was established by the Baron Rothschild in 1924.

In the wake of the global economic crisis of 1932, which led to a significant decrease in the consumption of perfumes and the development of synthetic substitutes, the value of jasmine flowers was diminished until no longer were a source of income for the settlers. With the generous support of the Baron, the factory continued to struggle for its existence, but in 1937 it was shut down, and all the equipment - with its huge copper boilers, was returned to France. The jasmine fields were replaced with houses, and in the surrounding areas, vines began to bloom.

In honor of the 70th anniversary of the State of Israel, and the 95th anniversary of Binyamina settlement, Binyamina Winery has created a new series of wines: Moshava (the settlement).

Out of respect and love for the area, and out of the belief that each wine bears the taste of the vineyards' soil and the caressing touch of the farmer's hand, the Moshava series of wines brings the flavors and aromas of the settlement, the longing for simplicity, the harmony between man and nature and between man and his fellow friends.

The wines of Moshava are varietals, and it begins with the meticulous cultivation of the winery's vineyards, continues with the process of fermenting grapes in the winery's steel tanks and its maturation in the cellars, until it has reached the bottle in a careful and meticulous process.

Finally, when a bottle of wine from Binyamina Winery's Moshava series opens, it is possible - even for a moment, to experience the taste and aroma of the settlement, which is surrounded by vineyards on the slopes of Mount Carmel.

THE CHOSEN

The Chosen are the precious stones that were embedded in the vest of the Jewish Temple's High Priest's breastplate and symbolized the twelve tribes of Israel. As these stones were chosen carefully, the winery selects each year grapes from distinguished sub-plots, individual vineyards from the best terroirs in Israel. The purpose of this series is to express exciting wines in terms of their quality, a finite combination that is created not only by the fact that the raw materials are the finest, or by the professional and uncompromising work of the vine growers, but also by the unique production processes that accompany it: maceration of grape skins for aroma and flavor, controlled gradual fermentation, selected oak barrels and a long period of ageing, creating together the elite series of the winery, which was created entirely by hand, while striving for uncompromising quality and the definite meaning of the term: Perfection.

YOGEV

The wonderful farmers who work with us, the vine growers who embody in their personality and work the Israeli roots for the love of the land, have given and still gives us inspiration and vision. As appreciation and honor, we have created the "Yogev" wine series ("Yogev" according to the Sapir Dictionary: agricultural worker, sharecropper, farmer).

The "Yogev" series is dedicated to our vine growers, the people of the land, and expresses their contribution to the quality wine produced at the end of a process, that begins in their vineyards. If you will, this is our version of the beautiful songs of the Land of Israel.

The wines belonging to the "Yogev" series are blended wines and varietal wines of quality grapes that matured by the vine growers in the winery's finest vineyards.

GOLAN HEIGHTS WINERY VINEYARDS

All of the wines of the Golan Heights Winery are Kosher and Kosher for Passover, certified by Rabbi Avrohom Dov Oyerbach from Tiberias and also by the Rabbinat of the Golan Heights, headed by Rabbi Yishai Samuel.

Furthermore, the Golan Heights Winery is permanently inspected by the world wide Kosher authority, O.K. The wines bear the  symbol, and are certified by them as Kosher Lamehadrin - strictly Kosher.

SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

Golan Heights Winery is an integral part of the human and creative fabric of the Golan. Our origins, values and qualities are all connected to this special region. The Winery is actively supporting the community and the environment in northern Israel in general, and in the Golan Heights in particular.

We work continuously to increase our “green” activities and reduce our actions that may cause harm to the environment. We also strive to expand and enrich the activities and assistance we provide to the local community.

SUSTAINABLE AGRICULTURE

One of the Winery’s most important initiatives in the area of sustainability was our recent receipt of accreditation by the respected LODI RULES Sustainable Winegrowing Program. Golan Heights Winery and its subsidiary Galil Mountain Winery both received the first international certification for sustainable vineyards under the LODI RULES program, which is considered meticulous and comprehensive. Out of the vineyards of the two wineries, about 1,720 dunams (172 hectares) are registered under the LODI RULES protocol. The two wineries are actually the first to receive such accreditation in Israel and represent the first international certification of all California programs for sustainable winegrowing.

Golan Heights Winery, which is known for its ecological approach to winegrowing, searched worldwide for a serious and meaningful plan for sustainable growth that would bring real value to the Winery’s work in its vineyards. In the end, the Winery selected the LODI RULES protocol, which presents a comprehensive and advanced approach to sustainable winegrowing.

Victor Schoenfeld, Head Winemaker of Golan Heights Winery, agrees with this selection. “This is a milestone in our efforts to nurture our vineyards sustainably as part of our ongoing and holistic quest to improve and develop the quality of our wine both today and in the future. We see ourselves as guardians of a very special spot on our planet. We hope to serve as a model for others in the Israeli wine industry in order to promote and develop sustainability in our industry as a whole. We look forward to expanding our cooperation with the LODI RULES program in 2019 and beyond, and we are confident that others will join us.”

SOLAR POWER

The Winery has established a solar power system that is expected to produce about 50% of its electricity needs. This is a significant step, as the Winery’s current electricity consumption is relatively high due to the operation of multiple cooling systems, complex automation and production processes, filtration systems and more. In addition, the system shades the roofs of the Winery, thereby reducing the use of energy required to cool the buildings.

ORGANIC VINEYARD AND GREEN WINEGROWING

The Winery operates the first and largest organic vineyard in Israel. In addition, some of the organic growing methods from that vineyard are applied in other vineyards, such as the use of: compost; a tool for removing weed roots from the soil; and moth mating disruption (using pheromones to confuse moths and prevent their access to the grapevines). For more on organic winegrowing, go to the description about Odem Vineyard.

COMPOST

In order to fertilize our organic plots, the Winery is producing compost from pomace (solid remains of grapes). This also reduces the amount of waste sent to solid waste sites.

WASTEWATER TREATMENT FACILITY

The winery has a computerized purification plant, which was established at the request of the Ministry of Environmental Protection. The wastewater is checked once a month during one day at every hour, and every three months a random sample is taken for testing.

TREATMENT OF LIQUID WASTE

Liquid waste that accumulates during harvest from the washing of the various tanks and systems does not flow to the sewer but rather to a purification facility that separates the liquids and the solids. From there, the liquids are transported to the sewage treatment basin at Kibbutz Givat Haim, which requires the liquids as food for bacteria that generate gas used to produce electricity for use in their factory.

RECYCLING OF GREYWATER

We are currently working on setting up a system for treating and recycling water from the Winery's barrel hall. This greywater will be reused for watering the garden of our visitors' center and more.

PRODUCT RECYCLING

Bottles, plastic bags, cartons and batteries are collected in containers scattered around the Winery, and are then transferred to recycling companies.

SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

For years, the Winery has worked with nonprofit associations, organizations and companies that undertake projects on behalf of the community and special needs populations. Such activities were expressed in donations and sponsorships, as well as in integrating products produced or packaged by special needs populations in our gift packages.

Starting in 2009, all of the Winery's employees have participated together in a large community project. In this manner we have adopted a number of special places and exciting initiatives in the north of Israel.

AWARD WINNING WINES

The Golan Heights Winery has been the most prolific award winner in Israeli wine for more than 30 years, winning trophies and gold medals in international competition, high scores from the major wine critics and international recognition at the highest possible level. Uniquely, The Winery has excelled in each of the categories of white, red, sparkling and sweet wines, winning major prizes in each. This shows the winery's excellence, versatility and consistency.

The awards began with the Gold Medal and Trophy at the IWSC in London in 1987, and never really stopped since. Highlights include winning the Grand Prix d'Honneur at Vinexpo in Bordeaux three times in a row, winning Best Winery at Vinitaly, being awarded Best New World Winery by the Wine Enthusiast, and both the platinum and 95 points by Decanter World Wine Awards. The Winery is consistently invited to the Wine Spectator's New York Wine Experience, open only to the leading wineries in the world.

The breadth, depth and quality of the awards have ensured that the Golan Heights Winery has not only put Israel on the international wine map, but has maintained its position as the number one ambassador for Israeli wines.
